

The Portland Peace Choir Presents a BIPOC Speaker Series

Join us as we bring three BIPOC (black, indigenous and person of color) musical artists to share their story and expertise in singing.

November 4 - J’Nai Bridges

Known for her “plush-voiced mezzo-soprano” (The New York Times), J’Nai has been heralded as “a rising star” (Los Angeles Times), gracing the world’s top stages. Her 2019-2020 operatic engagements in the U.S. this season include her debut at The Metropolitan Opera.

November 18 - Charles Anthony Bryant

C. Anthony Bryant is emerging as one of the most versatile, powerful, and technically sound voices of our day. A graduate of Atlanta’s historic and prestigious Morehouse College, and the Manhattan School of Music, Bryant teaches private voice and serves as an adjunct voice instructor at The New School. He is currently working on his second solo recording project.

December 2- Ithica Tell

Ithica is a PAMTA (Portland Area Musical Theatre Award) winner whose vast Portland resume includes: Yitzhak in Hedwig and the Angry Inch and Voice Six/Mrs. Alexander in The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time (Portland Center Stage).

All Wednesdays starting at 7 pm

Suggested Donation $10 for each speaker/$30 for all three.
